August is really giving us awful hot weather. We are so thankful for the nice rain on Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Jacobs will go on vacation this week.

The Mothers and Daughter G. A. banquet will be held Friday, August 12, at 6 o'clock P. M. at New Hope Baptist Church. This is sponsored by the W. M. U. It is requested that members who have been asked to do this, not to forget the date. All of the organizations will meet at 7:30. We hope for a big crowd.

Farmers are surely having a hot time to fill their silos.

CLEAN SUCKERING PAYS ON TOBACCO

Clean or close suckering of burley tobacco will give higher yields and higher per acre values than other suckering practices.

This is the conclusion of scientists at the Southwest Experiment Station at Glade Spring, after a five-year study. The study was designed to answer this question often asked by burley growers: "Should I top my tobacco and clean sucker the crop, or should I top it and let two top suckers grow?"

In the test, three sucker management treatments were tried: (1) all plants clean suckered, (2) two suckers left until one week before cutting, and (3) two suckers left until time of cutting. All plots were fertilized with 200 pounds of phosphorus and 300 pounds of potash per acre. Four rates of nitrogen were used—50, 100, 150, and 200 pounds per acre.

The clean or close suckering treatment gave higher yields and higher acre values than the other two practices under all nitrogen treatments. Increases under clean suckering averaged 297 pounds and $128 per acre for Burley 1, and 172 pounds and $88 per acre for Burley 2.

Clean suckering may cause some loss of quality, and more time and labor will be needed. But if you leave the two top suckers until cutting time, you can expect a lower yield, less "spread" in leaves in the top of the plants, somewhat better quality tobacco, and you can expect more plants to be blown down during storms. This practice will require less time and labor than clean suckering.

Chemicals are not recommended to control suckers on burley. Some growers have had serious losses from the use of sub-[illegible] few seasons. Other [illegible] obtained good control [illegible] no loss. Generally [illegible] droppage and [illegible] too much oil has [illegible] when humid weather [illegible] ing or soon after [illegible] Research with oils [illegible] less loss occurs when [illegible] is used than when [illegible] ed.

THE COMMUNITY PAGE

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS

TRADE AT HOME

For quite some years, this page has appeared two weeks each month. An "official designation" has never been accorded it, but most of our readers have come to record it as "The Community Page."

It seems appropriate now to accept that recognition, and give an official label to: "The Community Page."

We do this because it is our conviction that we must realize and accept the fact that we have community interest. There is not one individual in this area who does not reap some benefit from the overall welfare of the community itself. The benefit may vary. There are some who benefit because of support that local taxes afford to public services . . local taxes made possible because of business done in Appomattox. And all of us benefit from the fact that we have fine local churches and schools. Their support is based on COMMUNITY EFFORT. This entire page would not suffice to just list the benefits of living "in a growing and prospering Community."

But how does a Community Prosper?

What is it that makes one community grow and move forward, and what is it that causes another to lag and barely hold its own or even drift backward?

We believe that community pride and spirit and a feeling of "oneness" have much to do with it. And also we believe something else, and that something else is that a growing community must have progressive and enterprising business firms alert to see to it that it is definitely to the individual advantage of the people living and earning their livelihood in a community, to do their business in that community. To that end, we believe that you should not have "to pay extra" to do business in Appomattox. On the other hand, we strive day in and day out to make a real savings for you to do business in your home community.

The listings on this page are typical of the progressive firms inviting you to do business in Appomattox. They are your neighbors. You Know them, and they know you. Working together, we can all be on "The Appomattox Team" and constantly add to the prosperity and standard of living in our Community. And so, we say, truly, we accept the name: "COMMUNITY PAGE!" Won't you join with us in our efforts to upbuild our community? We want Appomattox to BE THE BEST.
